Buckinghamshire is one of the most filmed counties with blockbuster such Harry Potter and James Bond, together with the popular television series Midsummer Murders using it's scenic countryside and historic buildings as backdrops.

The Chilterns is an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty ideal for walkers and bikers and an excellent viewpoint to spot Redkites. It's the only AONB that can be reached by the London Underground, is the 4th largest in the UK and has over 12,000 miles of walks within it.

With a thriving community of independent food and drink providers, farmers markets and Michelin Starred restaurants, Buckinghamshire is a food lovers heaven.

Buckinghamshire has more golf courses than any other county in England. An ideal sport to just to enjoy, or combine with business.

Buckinghamshire has the highest density of National Trust Properties in the UK. Waddesdon Manor is one of the most visited National Trust properties in the County.

Stoke Mandeville Guttmann Centre, the birthplace of the Paralympics, is host to the Heritage Flame which is used in the opening ceremony of every Paralympic Games wherever it is hosted in the world.
